Monday Nite Footballers Predictions

By Jim "Grand Dad" Nunnelly
Predicting Since 1970

Kansas City Chiefs vs. Buffalo Bills

7:30 p.m. ESPN

Game Prediction (Wins In Parenthesis)

Charles Allen(7)
Chiefs by 7
We ripped Raiders, now the Bills

Paul Booker (6)
Chiefs by 6
Our eyes are on the prize
(Super Bowl)

Carl Clark (7)
Chiefs by 10
Chiefs will get their meat before the show

Bubba Cleaver (7)
Chiefs by 9
Chiefs too good to buy a bill of Goods

Ike Gardner (4)
Chiefs by 1
Chiefs will no longer feast on Buffalo Meat

Lloyd Greenfield (7)
Chiefs by 6
Chiefs herd
Buffalo, too!

Ollie Hubbard (7)
Chiefs by 7
A buffalo butt-kicking

Jim Nunnelly (7)
Chiefs by 3
A Priest, a Barber
a Holliday

Ed West (6)
Chiefs by 10
Momentum keeps rolling

Erik Stafford (guest)	Chiefs by 14	16-0
Steve Garrett (guest)	Chiefs by 14	Buffalo has been struggling

Chatter, Conversation And Commentary

Each year, we change something about our organization....not just to attract new readers but to broaden our horizons. Last year, we added the Reverend Emanuel Cleaver to our "brainiac-maniac" football group. Listed under the moniker, Bubba, our readers immediately began to question, where did this "Bubba" come from. Now, affectionately known as "Rev", and "Mayor", Cleaver's first nickname was given to him, by his oldest of three sisters, trying to say "Brother". It stuck and anybody from his home state, Texas, would certainly know who Bubba is. Besides, having the most recognized name in all of Kansas City, Cleaver is a genuine Chiefs' football fan. Like his fellow Monday Niters, Cleaver actually was an All-Star linebacker and defensive back, in the '60s, way back, in high school. He was destined for a promising college career before injuring his knee. In fact, Cleaver could write a medical journal because he has been operated on 11 times, mostly for continuing knee problems. When Cleaver joined up with the Monday Niters, there was quite a bit of talk, about his presence....being a former mayor and a minister and socially interacting with three of his parishioners. When asked, Cleaver crisply states that he became a part of Monday Nite Football, just to have fun and be around a bunch of guys who like football and each other. Further, it gives him a chance to be just "one of the guys". Now, even though he acts down-to-earth and all, none of us would ever dare to refer to him as "just one of the guys". We, Monday Niters, regard Cleaver with the highest of respect. We really respect his ability to prognosticate, for he is the current leader in correct predictions. So, we just rate his football savvy, right up there with his ability to preach, his political prowess, and his God-given talent to lead wherever he goes. We all envy his unique ability to remember any conversation, even though it might have taken place months or years ago. And we are all proud to have him, as a friend to football and to us, as well.

Reproduced with permission of the copyright owner. Further reproduction prohibited without permission.