Monday Nite Footballers Predictions

By Jim "Grand Dad" Nunnelly

Tampa Bay Buccaneers At Arrowhead Saturday

Following a victory last week over the lowly Tennessee Titans, the Chiefs will appear before the home crowd again on Saturday night, this time against Tony Dingy's Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Longtime NFL fans will remember the "dog days" when Tampa Bay started off in 1976...they went winless their first season and had lost consecutive games before winning just one. But that was the old Bucs.

Trivia Question

Steve Young, star quarterback for San Francisco, has not always played for the 49ers. What two teams did he play for before becoming backup to Joe Montana in 1987? ANSWER: Young was a product of the United States Football League and played for the Los Angeles Express. Then, he played a stint with the Chiefs' opponent tomorrow, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Inimitable, The 'Word From Grand Dad'

Listen tomorrow to Carl Boyd's Generation Rap on Hot 103 for the "Word From Grand Dad." Though another word was promised on the show last week, this week's word will be inimitable. See how we use it in a tribute to Carl Boyd.

Farewell To Carl Boyd At Friendship, August 27

Ruth Hill, vice president for The Art of Positive Teaching, announced a farewell event for Carl Boyd. Boyd and his wife "Wonderful Wanda" are moving to Phoenix at the end of the month. Thus, on Friday evening, Aug. 27, starting at 6 o'clock, friends and associates are encouraged to bid farewell to them at the Friendship Baptist church, near 35th and Van Brunt, just south of the Veterans Hospital. Boyd began teaching at J.S. Chick school back in 1980 and launched The Art of Positive Teaching consulting firm in 1986. He is well known throughout the country as a lecturer and educator. In 1986, he began the Generation Rap program and has nurtured it to a natural part of Kansas City's morning culture. Any other questions, call 363-5270.

Pre-Teen Basketball Star From Ottawa

We would not expect you to know the name, Shana Wheeler. She's not even in high school and the media doesn't usually chase after middle schoolers. Nonetheless, she's an up and coming basketball star from Ottawa, Kas. Already 5'11", the eighth grader led the Kansas Belles to a national AAU tournament title in Springfield, Mo., recently. Seventy-two teams entered the under 12 meet, and Shana rose as one of the tournament's top scorers. Not only was she the sole African American on the team, she was the third tallest, yielding to two teammates just over six feet. She won praise from area coaches, after seeing her hold her own against older, more experienced high school players. Shana is the the niece of Monday Nite Footballer, Ed West.

Significant Potpourri

Monday Niters will release their annual predictions for the Kansas City Chiefs in two weeks...without Sammie Sosa and Mark McGwire, both the Chicago Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals would be hurting. Each team will exceed previous attendance records despite each posting very mediocre seasons...Bill Clark, president of the local Urban League, missed the annual national conference in Houston. He is recovering from an illness...COMBAT Drug Awareness Month activities continue with a picnic, honoring those who have maintained sobriety. It's all at Loose Park, starting at 2 o'clock on Sunday. All are welcome.
