Chatter, Conversation and Commentary

1. Marvelous Marcus is #1. On Thanksgiving Day, Marcus Allen soared his way to the top of the record books by scoring his 111th and 112th rushing touchdowns to assist in the Chiefs victory over the Detroit Lions. Allen previously held the rushing touchdown record with the Chicago Bears great Walter Payton at 110. Congratulations Allen and good luck breaking your own record many more times.
2. New Chiefs starting quarterback Rich Gannon debuted his versatile talents in fine fashion during the last game directing Kansas City to an important victory and keeping their home field wildcard playoff hopes alive.
3. Monday's game against the Oakland Raiders will be the 76th meeting between the two teams. This has become one of pro football's greatest rivalries which dates back to 1960, the initial American Football League season. The Chiefs barely lead the series, 37-36-1, making them one of only two teams (Philadelphia) in the NFL with a series edge over the Raiders.
4. The Raiders have back-to-back victories over the Seahawks (27-21) and Dolphins (17-7). The Raiders potent offense is led by Pro Bowl wide receiver Tim Brown. Currently, Brown is tied for second in the AFC with 75 catches for 915 yards and eight touchdowns.
5. Did you know? Chiefs running back Marcus Allen was a first-round draft choice of the Oakland Raiders 1982, but never played a game in the city before last season, moving with the team to Los Angeles before the start of the season. Allen was named Super bowl XVIII MVP following the 1983 season and was selected NFL MVP in 1985 after setting a league record for combined rushing and receiving yardage (2,314).
6. AFC West Update. The Denver Broncos (12-1) wrapped up the AFC West title and will have home field advantage throughout the playoffs. The Chiefs (9-4) are three games behind the Broncos and can qualify for their seventh straight playoff spot with a win over Oakland and losses by any of the following two teams: Indianapolis, Houston and San Diego. The Chiefs lead the NFL in most consecutive trips to the playoffs.
7. Niles Home for Children will be the beneficiary of an unusual gift this Christmas. The Monday Nite Football group will "give" Niles their time. During the next year, the group will volunteer and offer help where needed to the well-known children's facility. Ike Gardner, Paul Booker and Walt Livingston have worked at Niles through the years. Harry Sypert is employed there as an assistant to Don Lee, executive director.
8. Tony G, radio personality at the city's number one radio station KPRS, will begin his "Sleepless Marathon" today at Hypermart U.S.A.. Tony G will collect food and toys for the needy, while staying awake during the entire week-end.
9. Cigarettes contain nicotine which is a drug. Exercising and participating in sports is nearly impossible if you smoke cigarettes. Also, you people who smoke cigarettes, are much more likely to smoke pot and become addicted to other illicit substances such as heroin and cocaine. Call COMBAT at 881-3814 for more information.
